You wouldn't believe the crazy ideas people have about farming.

They expect you to increase production without fertilizer, fuel, chemicals or practically anything else.

They never stop to think about how much capital it takes to start and operate a farm. Or how much hard work.

And yet they get upset if you make a profit.

That's why I appreciate dealing with someone like Jim Nolen, who heads up the Agricultural Department at Fidelity National Bank. He's been here himself. Priming tobacco. Working the fields.

And as an agricultural specialist, he knows just how much it hurts me to have beef prices down about $10 per cwt. Or to have fertilizer supplies low and prices high.

To some bankers, these things don't mean much. But I can talk to Jim and know that he understands. Because he's been through it all himself.

And I know that he can help me take care of my number one concern—increased profits. With financial advice. Credit packages. And all the budget and planning assistance I can use.

What's more, Fidelity's got people just like him in all their branches. People trained in both farming and finance.

When you think about that, it's not surprising to find out that Fidelity lends more money to farmers than any other Virginia bank.

And I guess that's why I handle all my banking there. After all, I only do business with people who really know what they're talking about. And who back that talk up with action.

That's just plain common sense.

And that includes fall panicum. A growing grass problem that straight atrazine users haven't been controlling.

Fact is, Lasso plus atrazine is an excellent all-round herbicide treatment for corn growers in the North Carolina and Virginia area.

Why? Because Lasso plus atrazine goes to work on grasses as well as broadleaf weeds. Not just fall panicum, but other tough customers like smooth crabgrass, foxtails, pigweed, and smartweed.

Why, it even reduces competition from toughies like cocklebur and annual morningglory.

And except for sweet corn, you can save yourself a trip over the field by adding liquid fertilizer to your Lasso plus atrazine tank-mix.

Another thing that makes Lasso plus atrazine fit in with your growing operation is the way it minimizes the risk of carryover. You see, Lasso has no carryover. And since you use less atrazine in the tank mix, there's less chance of having carryover problems.

This year, put Lasso plus atrazine to work in your corn. You'll control fall panicum, crabgrass and other annual grasses missed by atrazine. As well as most annual broadleaf weeds.
